COURTROOM PRACTICES

(a) Addressing the Court. Attorneys and unrepresented parties must rise when addressing the court, must speak to the court from counsel table or the lectern facing the court and may not approach the bench, except with court permission.

(b) Questioning Witnesses. While questioning witnesses, attorneys and unrepresented parties must stand at counsel table or at the lectern and may not approach the witness, except with court permission. Only one attorney for each party may participate in the examination or cross examination of a witness.
